Concordia women's hockey advances to playoffs in 1st place

The Concordia women's hockey team ended its regular season last weekend, capturing first place in the QSSF. The Stingers posted a 12-3-1 record in the QSSF and a 20-8-2 record overall.

First place gives the team a bye in the first round of the playoffs. The Stingers will advance directly to the finals on Sunday Feb. 17 and will play the winner of a sudden-death McGill-Ottawa semifinal game. The QSSF champions will be decided by a best-of-three series games. Game one on Sunday and will be followed by game two on Feb. 22 and if necessary game 3 will be played Feb. 24. Game one and three will be played at Concordia at 2 p.m. and game two will be played at either McGill or Ottawa at 7 p.m.

The Stingers have played McGill and Ottawa four times each. Playing McGill, Concordia has won three games and lost one and against Ottawa, Concordia has won one game, lost two and tied one.

In the playoffs, the Stingers will rely heavily on the leadership of several players, including leading scorer and assistant captain Marie-Claude Allard who has 35 points in 16 games. Stinger goalie, Jessica Anderson is on a roll, in six QSSF games she has won five and only lost one.

Concordia will be going for their seventh QSSF championship in a row. The winner of the the three-game final will advance to CIS national championship, which will be played Feb. 28 to March 3 and hosted by the University of Regina.
